CITY OF CLARKSBURG

Updates from City Manager, Tiffany Fell

Celebrating Heritage and Community in Clarksburg:

September is beginning with an exciting stretch of events in downtown Clarksburg as our community prepares to celebrate the traditions, cultures and people who make our city special.

This Friday, the West Virginia Italian Heritage Festival kicks off in downtown Clarksburg, welcoming residents and visitors for a weekend filled with Italian food, live entertainment, traditions and activities. This longtime festival continues to be one of our region's signature events and provides a wonderful opportunity to showcase our downtown and welcome visitors from across West Virginia and beyond.

The celebration continues next week with the West Virginia Black Heritage Festival, another important event that brings people together while highlighting Black history, culture, music and community.

Events like these are about more than a weekend of entertainment. They bring people into our city, support local businesses, create lasting memories and showcase the diversity and strong sense of community that make Clarksburg such a special place.

We are looking forward to welcoming everyone downtown and hope residents and visitors alike enjoy all that Clarksburg has to offer during these two exciting weekends.
