A Dust-Kissed Finale for Dancing in the Streetlight

The final Dancing in the Streetlight concert of the season was held on Friday, August 7, closing out the trio of summer performances with strong community support. Although the series opened in the rain and the last show ended in an unexpected dust cloud, residents still filled the street and kept the tradition alive with plenty of dancing and community spirit. The City extends its appreciation to the Streets and Sanitation Departments for coordinating barricades and dumpsters, and to MainStreet Truth or Consequences Director Becca Eza for organizing the lineup of local talent, securing the stage, and bringing in excellent vendors.

Help Support the Levitt Music Series in Truth or Consequences

MainStreet Truth or Consequences is preparing the free Levitt outdoor music series made possible by the Levitt Family Foundation grant and by the residents and friends who voted to support the city's application. The Thursday-night concerts will run September 10 through October 22 from 6–9 p.m. at Ralph Edwards Park, featuring a wide range of family-friendly music.

MainStreet is seeking volunteers who can assist at least five of the seven concerts with roles such as event setup and takedown, parking guidance, information booth staffing, merchandise sales, activity support, and general crowd and grounds management. Those interested can complete the volunteer interest form at tinyurl.com/LevittVolunteer. A volunteer orientation will be held Wednesday, August 19 at 5:30 p.m. in the Truth or Consequences Commission Chambers on 3rd Avenue.

Everyone is encouraged to attend the concerts and help spread the word about this free community music series.

Foch Street Project Update: Week of August 10

A final walk-through of the Foch Street project is scheduled for Thursday, August 13, marking the last step before the street reopens to traffic. While the official opening date has not yet been set, only the required striping within the NMDOT right-of-way at Main and Broadway remains, which will be completed following the walk-through. MainStreet and the City are tentatively planning a ribbon-cutting celebration on Saturday, September 12, ahead of Second Saturday Art Hop, to welcome the community downtown to see the finished improvements. Additional details will be shared as plans are finalized.
